1892

Specialità Caffè Hausbrandt

Since the beginning, advertising has been one of the crucial aspects of Hausbrandt Trieste 1892 S.p.A. The first slogan demonstrates the company's insight in highlighting the coffee's high quality. This marked the beginning of 'Specialità Caffè Hausbrandt': a simple, direct motto, but one which very quickly became synonymous with the company itself, almost supplanting its real name. The slogan was added to the coffee packages and placed on the first company vehicles, implementing an advertising campaign that was unheard of in that era and that soon made the name Hausbrandt synonymous with coffee. After associating its product with the countless moments of the day, Caffè Hausbrandt explored new ideas, venturing into true marketing experiments. A prime example is the poster 'Tre parole: Specialità Caffè Hausbrandt' (Three Words: Specialità Caffè Hausbrandt), featuring a small man wearing a turban and graphics that are completely different from those of 'i momenti del caffè' (moments for coffee). This and other experimental campaigns, like the photographic image that contained the history of coffee, had brief life spans, but the success they had during the periods in which they were used was anything but trivial.

Hausbrandt, the first Italian coffee roasting company, launched an innovative advertising programme at the height of the Belle Epoque that made use of the period's primary means of communication. The romantic subjects chosen for the first campaign were 'the little old people', characters that are still among the most recognizable symbols of the company today. The next campaign paired coffee with images from daily life, thereby representing the consumption of coffee as part of a hypothetical daily schedule. The crowning achievement of this advertising campaign was the image known as 'the little old people', which had graphics that revealed the painstaking care that went into perfectly communicating their advertising message.

The colours were carefully selected to match the innate charm of the two characters masterfully placed in a characteristic setting. The result was perhaps the most eloquent expression of the true enjoyment of drinking a good coffee. 'The little old people' thus established a new advertising philosophy for Hausbrandt that featured the artwork of the great Dudovich and focused on 'i momenti del caffè', interpreted in their everyday nature. The slogan was added to the coffee packages and placed on the first company vehicles, implementing an advertising campaign that was unheard of in that era.

Storia HISTORY

1892

The strength of a company

Despite the tragedies of World War II, Hausbrandt survives and maintains its identity as the largest Italian coffee roasting company, preserving its historical production plants throughout the national territory.

1980

Internationalization

With a widespread distribution network, Hausbrandt is able to guarantee the international distribution of its coffee. Its pursuit of excellence, the result of a constant selection of high-quality raw materials, has led Hausbrandt Trieste 1892 S.p.A. to hold a leading position in the world of coffee, which goes beyond national borders and includes companies in Austria and Slovenia.

1940

Foundation of the brand

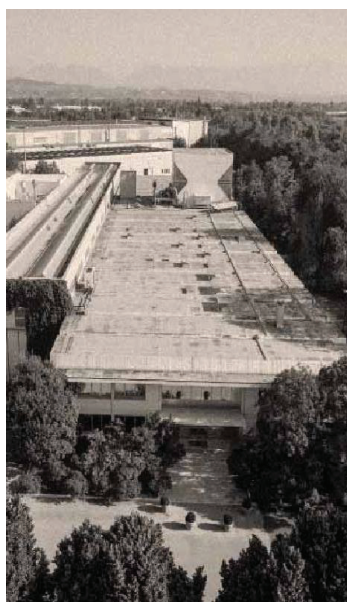

The 'Specialita Caffè Hausbrandt' brand is founded in 1892. Hausbrandt becomes the first company offering products that are processed and packed at its own plant in sealed metal containers.

The company today

In 2017 a new, technological logistics hub is inaugurated, bringing together in the same location the warehouses where Hausbrandt coffees (3000 m²), Theresianer beers (1200 m²) and Col Sandago wines (over 500 m²) are stored. In 2019 the Corporate Identity is significantly renewed for the second time in the company's history, with the introduction of the new logo and coordinated image.

2000

The adventure begins

Martino Zanetti lays the first brick of what will become one of the most representative companies in the world of coffee, choosing to devote himself to an entrepreneurial initiative aimed at promoting gourmet coffee selections, uncharted territory until then. This marks a sort of break with the past, addressing consumers looking for refined, high quality products.

1968

Evolution of the brand

At the end of the 80s, with the entrepreneurial revolution brought by the new President Martino Zanetti, the logo type 'Moka' was the subject of a substantial restyling which redesigned its features in a more refined, sober style. Gaining in intensity with the colors red and gold, Moka comes further to life with a more communicative, contemporary appearance.

WISSOTZKY: BORN WHEN A MAN NAMED WOLF TOOK TO THE SEA.

It was 1849 and Klonimus Wolf Wissotzky liked tea. But he wanted to love it. He tried every tea in Moscow, but they all fell short. So he set sail on an unending quest to find the world's best ingredients.

Later, the Wissotzky Tea Company was the exclusive purveyor to a real tea snob—the Russian emperor. To satisfy the royal whims, and our own passions, we set out on expeditions to every corner of the earth looking for new flavors.

Since then we've moved our operations and won numerous awards from the connoisseurs of Europe and Asia. But mostly we've been choosing teas, blending them, cupping, and blending them again until they're teas we can truly love.

This unwavering commitment to quality has been driving us for over five generations, and we do it all so every customer's cup tastes remarkable.

THE WATER THAT BREAK THE STONE

The route to health is a wonderful journey. You can discover this with Fiuggi Mineral Water.

Don't miss out on the unique characteristics of the water that's purity quality and authenticity has taken care of Italians for generations. Enjoy the cleansing properties of it the water that came from Italy's most famous spring. The story recounts how kings, noblemen, politicians, Popes and ambassadors were benefited by drinking this 'miraculous water'. In 1549, Michelangelo Buonarroti, who suffered of kidney stones, wrote about this wonderful water as 'the water that breaks the stone'. This expression, used by Michelangelo on purely observational basis, today, finds strong scientific support and explanation. Known worldwide for its depurative and benefic properties, Fiuggi belongs to the category of mineral cold waters that flow at a temperature of 12.4 °C at the source. The secret of Fiuggi water is in its composition. The Fiuggi water basin is situated at the foot of Enici Mountains, in the valley of Fiuggi that in prehistoric times was a lake. With lacustrine sedimentation and volcanism, the ground has been enriched by a layer of silty clay, tuff and ashes. Today, the water flowing through the volcanic layer enriches itself with benefic components that detoxify the body and promote well being. Used both in the watering parks and for bottling it is the ideal solution for those who want excellence and quality in a glass of water.
